

Sullivan County

Sullivan County is located on the western border of the state, south of center. It borders Vermont to the west with a 36-mile stretch of the Connecticut River. Sullivan County came into existence in 1827, made up of communities taken from Cheshire County. The name was in honor of General John Sullivan, a Revolutionary War hero, and member of the Continental Congress, Adjutant General to George Washington, and Major General of the Northern Army. He was elected "President" of New Hampshire in 1786, and the town of Sullivan in Cheshire County was named for him in 1787.

Sullivan County contains 537.3 square miles of land area and 14.7 square miles of inland water area. Based on the 2010 Census population, the population density is 81.4 persons per square mile. Sullivan County includes one city, Claremont, and 14 towns. The county seat is Newport.

Population Trends: Sullivan County is moderately small in both square miles and population, and holds the fourth-lowest population density among the counties. The county has not experienced any dramatic increases or decreases in population seen by several other counties. Decennial population growth was above ten percent only three times in Sullivan County history: 1930, 1970, and 1980. Since 1950, the population has grown well below the statewide average rate. Over the last three decades Sullivan had the second-smallest population increases among the counties; only Coös County had a lower rate of growth.
